Introduction
[Introduction text, in text references using APA format. A symposium discusses a topic in depth or presents contrasting views/evidence. For example, language assessment practices for a specific brain etiology, or how the representation of a language process is debated over different brain networks. A symposium can also discuss a new approach or technological advance to assess language impairments or to map language in the brain.]

Structure
[The suggested number of talks is 3-4. Talks typically last 15 mins + 5 mins of questions. A longer Q&A session for all talks can also be planned at the end. Note that each presenter must also submit a separate abstract for their presentation using the Platform/Poster template. Individual presenters should also include the name of Symposium and organizer in the Acknowledgments (see Platform/Poster template). Proposals are evaluated by the Program Committee based on scientific merit, innovation, relevance, and program balance.]

Session 1
[Include the name of the presenter and a short description of the session]

Session 2
[Include the name of the presenter and a short description of the session]

Session 3
[Include the name of the presenter and a short description of the session]

Session 4
[Include the name of the presenter and a short description of the session]

Interest to the Academy
[Interest to the Academy text, the 500 word abstract limit includes the Introduction, Structure, and Interest to the Academy, but not acknowledgments or references]
